Diggon.

Ah for loue of that, is to thee moste leefe,
Hobbinol, I pray thee gall not my old grieke:
Sike queſtion ripeth vp cauſe of newe woe,
For one opened mote vnfolde many moe.

Hobbinoll.

Nay, but ſorrow cloſe ſhrouded in hart
I know, to kepe, is a burdenous ſmart.
Eche thing imparted is more eath to beare:
When the rayne is faln, the cloudes wexen cleare.
And nowe ſithence I ſawe thy head laſt,
Thriſe three Moones bene fully ſpent and paſt:
Since when thou haſt meaſured much grownd,
And wandred I wene about the world rounde,
So as thou can many thinges relate:
But tell me firſt of thy flocks eſtate.

Diggon.

My sheepe bene wailed, (wae is me therefore)
The iolly ſhepheard that was of yore,
Is nowe not iollye, nor ſhepehearde more.
In forrein coſtes, men ſayd, was plentye:
And ſo there is, but all of miſerye.
I dempt there much to haue eeked my ſtore,
But ſuch eeking hath made my hart ſore.
In tho countryes, whereas I haue bene,
No being for thoſe, that truely mene,
But for ſuch, as of guile maken gayne,
No ſuch countrye, as there to remaine.
They ſetten to ſale their ſhops of ſhame,
And maken a Mart of theyr good name.
The ſhepheards there robben one another,
And layen baytes to beguile her brother.
Or they will buy his ſheepe out of the cote,
Or they will caruen the ſhepheards throte.
The ſhepheards ſwayne you cannot wel ken,
But it be by his pryde, from other men:
They looken bigge as Bulls, that bene bate,

And bearen the cragge ſo ſtiffe and
As cocke on his dunghill, crowing
